

WOMEN AS I KNOW THEM

poems by

helen lawson

Copyright © 1973, 1975, 1977, 1978 by Helen Lawson.

Published by The Blue Spruce Press,
South Windsor, Connecticut, 1978.

Acknowledgement is made to the following magazines and anthologies in which some of the poems in this book originally appeared: Anthology of American and Canadian Poets, Bread & Roses, Contemporary Connecticut Writers, Phantasm, Hog River Review, Season of Somber, The Red Fox Review, The Tripod, THE SMITH, The Villager, Trinity Review.

Library of Congress catalog card number: 78-51344

CONTENTS

My Body

My body	3
Milking time	4
Raven-like	5
The scars on my body	6
Back to one's butcher	7

Reaching Out

To my daughter Philippa	11
Let us build	12
To a West Hartford Lady	13
Last night	14
Autumn	15
Winter love	16
Reaching out	17

Women As I Know Them

Virgin Flight	21
Girl-friend	22
Old with Mozart and Vivaldi	23
Demeter	24
A fact to notice	25
Middle age	26
Nuclear Family	27
A game for men and women	28
Bad women	29
Never again	30
Song of a suffragette	31
We are amazed	32
I have the right	33

Closed Vision

Snake-mating	37
God says we must love each other	38
Surreal	39
Closed vision	40

Golden Age	41
Harmony	42
Ours is	43
Ravenous	44
You in me	45

No Name

Mea culpa	49
Il Pagliaccio	50
just because	51
Old story	52
Childhood scene	53
No name	54

No Longer

A spouse	57
A visit	58
A tale	59
Getting the ingredients together	60
Divorce	61
a plot	62
Departure	63
Hana	64
Thanksgiving	65
in the hope-wood	66
Elizabeth	67
encounter	68
Fall of Titans	69
Reflection	70
All hollow	71
Bionic	72
exodus for moses	73
Curtains	74
Imitation mayonnaise	75
Horn of Plenty	76
Bread stales	77
Her hair is long and blond	78
Awakening	79
No longer	80
Prodigal friend	81

HELEN LAWSON

has published her poetry in Europe and in the U.S.A. Her fiction was broadcast in this country, also by the B.B.C. A mother of four children, she is aware of herself as a woman, and of the lives of the women she knows. Ms. Lawson teaches English and French. She is at present a resident writer at YADDO, working on a novel and compiling another book of poetry.